Debate begins over 30 hospital beds

Consultants give three options on how to spend precious healthcare dollars

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Let the debate begin — Haliburton County has three options of how to meet its healthcare needs.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Haliburton County Planning and Development Committee, David

Coulson and Associates presented its final report on the redevelopment of acute and long-term care services. The three options — which the committee and healthcare professionals will be discussing today (Tuesday) at BonnieView Inn — are as follows:

• Option 1: Upgrade Haliburton Hospital and construct 15 long-term care beds on site. Relocate and upgrade the Minden Hospital on the Hyland Crest site. Upgrade Hyland Crest. Capital cost: $9.5-million. Annual operating costs: $5-million.

• Option 2: Upgrade Haliburton Hospital and construct 30 long-term care beds on site. Relocate Minden Hospital on the Hyland Crest site. Upgrade Hyland Crest. Capital cost: $10.7-million. Annual operating costs: $5-million.

• Option 3: Upgrade Haliburton Hospital and construct 15 long-term care beds on site. Relocate and upgrade Minden Hospital on the Hyland Crest site. Upgrade Hyland Crest and add 18 long-term care beds. Capital costs: $11-million. Annual operating costs: $5.5-million.

With each option, the consultants suggest moving the Minden Hospital from its present site at the juncture of Hwy. 35 and Bobcaygeon Road. The present building is old, the property is relatively small and the costs of bringing it up to current standards are high — $2.9-million. Unless these improvements are made, however, "it is not reasonable to expect the hospital to continue to provide acute care services."

Although the public likes the present location, attaching the hospital to Hyland Crest (with the entrance off Deep Bay Road) would create some operating cost savings. Construction costs for this alone are estimated at $2.7-million.

Adding at least 15 of the long-term care beds to the Haliburton Hospital seems to recognize that public funds were first raised for an 18-bed unit at that hospital. An official with St. Joseph's Hospital, which owns both the Minden and Haliburton hospitals, had previously said the committee had a moral, if not legal, obligation to use the $600,000 fund at the Haliburton Hospital.

The architect's plans for the 18-bed unit can no longer be used because of changes in building and healthcare standards. There has been a bit of wrangling in the past about who will pay the outstanding $400,000 bill for the plans.

Changes to Hyland Crest are needed, perhaps not as immediately, because standards have changed since the county-owned senior citizens home was built 26 years ago. Listed as an "opportunity" instead of an option, the consultants suggest that all 30 of the beds which have been approved by the province be built at the home. This would be the least expensive alternative because of the operating efficiencies.

And while the costs of improving Hyland Crest are high at $3.3-million, the consultants suggest that a private institution such as Extendicare take ownership.

Osmonds star as rescuers on ice

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

If most girls who went through puberty in the 1970s were to meet Donny Osmond today, their automatic reflex would prove Pavlov's lesser known law about conditioned responses: no matter how much time has elapsed, their heart would flutter, their cheeks would flush and their male counterparts would moan "Oh brother!"

But Art Ouellette and Wes Kerr were never teenaged girls, so when they met the former teenage heart-throb in the middle of a frozen lake in Haliburton Forest, their main reaction was "Get us out of here — please!"

Sure, they had seen Donny Osmond on tv and this young man seemed familiar enough, but when you're stuck in a foot and a half of slush, 15 miles from civilization, you simply don't expect a television star and his family to be your rescuers.

That's exactly what happened last Monday, however. In fact, it happened twice.

The two older gentlemen had finished a day of ice fishing when they discovered their snowmobiles had become mired in the deep melting snow. Their efforts to get free were for naught until a young man and woman arrived, with three children. (The couple looked so young, Mr. Ouellette thought they all might be brothers and sisters.) They too had been snowmobiling, and without being asked, left their sleds on terra firma and walked onto the lake to help the stranded fishermen. Everyone was soaked by the time the snowmobiles were pulled free and the gear was carried to the shore to lessen the load.

On shore, the men gave profuse thanks to their rescuers — it would have been a long, long walk back to Base Camp — and then everyone went their separate ways.

Back at the entrance of Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve, the fishermen, both Highlanders, were a bit embarrassed to discover that their truck was also refusing to budge. Much snow had melted since it was parked there that morning and the men weren't having much luck digging it out.

"Guess what?" says Mr. Ouellette. "They came along again. It was just 'You again!'"

The young family happily repeated their efforts and dislodged the truck. Before heading into Haliburton, Mr. Ouellette asked them if they would still be

Mr. Schleifenbaum, who spent his teen years in Germany, had never heard of Donny Osmond before a travel agent phoned to say a "celebrity" was interested in snowmobiling at Haliburton Forest. The travel agent had toured the Forest and her client was interested in snowmobiling with his family. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Osmond himself phoned and booked one of the housekeeping cabins and two snowmobiles.

Mr. Osmond is currently starring in the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat, at the Elgin Theatre in Toronto. Critics, who tend to forget that Donny Osmond was a teen idol who actually could sing, have given him excellent reviews and the show is scheduled to run until the end of summer.

Monday was Mr. Osmond's day off and his family, who has been staying with him in Toronto, decided to get away from it all. They had been snowmobiling before and felt this was a perfect opportunity to enjoy the great Canadian outdoors.

By the time they left Haliburton on Tuesday, the entire Osmond family had won a new generation of fans. Judging by everyone's reaction, the Osmonds' niceness makes them honorary Canadian citizens.

"He was nice, friendly. He just wanted to be away with his family and have some privacy," says Haliburton Forest employee Shirley Letourneau, who thought it was a joke when Mr. Schleifenbaum told her who their guests would be. When she met Mr. Osmond, "you just try to pretend you're not star struck."

Asked about the purple socks young Donny was famous for wearing, Mrs. Letourneau laughs.

Board takes a byte out of its reserves to spend $300,000 on computer program

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

A recorded vote was requested, but in the end, Haliburton County school board trustees voted unanimously to take $200,000 out of reserve funds to kick start a new computer education initiative.

The board passed a resolution last Tuesday to spend a total of $300,000 — $100,000 from current expenditures and the rest from reserves — as a first step towards implementing a five-year, $922,237 plan to integrate computers into all areas of curriculum. The plan was approved by the board at last Tuesday's meeting as well.

"We need to spend this money," said Trustee Len Salvatori. "I'm all for reducing the budget, but this is too important."

The new initiative will strive to bring the quality of computer education in Haliburton County schools up to par with the rest of province. Currently, students are learning on outdated computers, some purchased over eight years ago. The equipment is incompatible with other more advanced,

This week

IN BRIEF

Around Parklane Apartments in Haliburton, resident Ev Stata is known as a woman with a generous heart. Now the Heart and Stroke Foundation knows it too. At last week's Swim for Heart, Mrs. Stata garnered the most pledges in all four age groups. A participant in Haliburton County Home Support Services swim program, Mrs. Stata's swim added $525 to the Foundation's research projects to help more Canadians live longer.

On Friday night, the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School hosted an "Arrive Alive" video dance to raise money for the Ontario Students Against Impaired Driving. The dance, a joint project of OSAID and the provincial Ministry of the Attorney General, drives home the "drive sober" message.

Canadians cannot take pride in being the #1 producers of garbage in the industrial world, says the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, which is encouraging everyone to clean up their act during Pitch-In Week, May 3-9. Last year, volunteers donated more than $50-million in labour to help clean up their labour. For people who want to participate this year, for more information or free garbage bags please write Pitch-In Ontario, 36 Toronto Street, Suite 850, Toronto, M5C 2C5.

After his holiday in the south, John Dron of Stanhope dropped by with some U.S.A. Today articles. One of them was about a high school in Kalkaska, Michigan which has to close last week because taxpayers refuse to give it any extra money. The school, which is in an area where the average income is less than $20,000, was supposed to continue to June but simply ran out of money. A vote was held, and people refused to raise the necessary $1.5-million in property taxes ($266 per household). So, the class of 1993 is calling itself the class of 1992.75; graduation was last week. Let's hope the Haliburton County Board of Education's financial problems never lead it to take such drastic actions.

Attention artists, craftspeople and writers: The Highlands Artisans' Festival wants you. Once again, this popular show and sale will be taking over the Minden Community Centre. On the weekend of July 3 and 4, more than 100 exhibitors are expected to take part and this year the show will be bigger than ever. The Minden County Town Museum and the Minden Horticultural Society are taking part, and there will be several ongoing demonstrations. If you are interested in renting a spot at the Festival, please contact the Agnes Jamieson Gallery, 286-3763.

"I don't know about the purple socks, but I do know he was wearing white running shoes."

"He looked like he did 15 years ago," says Lindsay Roberts (who like most of the men interviewed, is a bit more nonplussed about all this). "The kids had a good time, he had a good time, so he was happy. Everyone just left them on their own."

Mr. Roberts tells of two ice fishermen who happened to notice the Osmonds' Utah car plates. Wanting to be friendly and nice, but not knowing who these people from Utah were, they brought the Osmonds some freshly fried fish. While there, Mr. Osmond said he was a singer. It wasn't until the next day that the fishermen were told by staff just who that singer happened to be.

After the success of the overnight visit, everyone is optimistic that the Osmonds will return, perhaps for a little fishing this summer.

And by the way, in case anyone wants to visit Haliburton Forest on their own, the Osmonds stayed in the Fireplace Cabin. Haliburton Forest should notice a marked increase in demand for this three-bedroom cabin, especially from female patrons who suddenly develop an interest in nature.

Money is a big concern with 3 hospital options

This is more feasible now that the province is getting rid of many of the funding distinctions between homes for the aged (public) and nursing homes (private).

The consultants were hired by the committee and St. Joseph's Hospital to look at the three public healthcare institutions in the county -- the Haliburton and Minden hospitals and Hyland Crest. The committee has a mandate to decide where to build the up to 30 long-term care beds the province has approved. The province has also agreed to spend $2.1-million on the project and to pick up the consultants' fees.

Working on the project were David Coulson, Terry McBurney, architect Chuck Cansfield, home administrator Robert Morton and medical advisor Dr. Donald Wilson. All men except for Dr. Wilson were at Tuesday's meeting at the Haliburton Legion.

"This is wonderful but I don't know where you're going to get the money," said committee member Michael Collins. "We have immediate problems (in healthcare delivery that must be addressed.) We've got to get this off the ground with the money we have."

"We've said what's a good plan and then we have to go out and sell it," Coulson responded.

Committee member Barbara Dawson noted that when she sat on the first committee for the 18-bed Haliburton unit, they went through 14 different plans. Every time there's a new architect, there's a new plan.

Morton said that when dealing with healthcare, the patient now comes first. All is done to keep a person in their home for as long as possible, but when their needs demand moving to an institution, the institution must respond to the person's needs for dignity as well.

The people in these homes will be "older, frailer, sicker and have more cognitive impairments such as Alzheimers," says Morton. "This is no real surprise for Haliburton County. The future is not tomorrow, it's today."

People were asked not to comment about the report until they had had a chance to read it over. Today's meeting at the BonnieView is designed as a workshop where all issues can be discussed openly and constructively.

(At first, the workshop was going to be closed to the public. But Chris Hodgson moved that it be made open so people can hear for themselves what's being discussed. As committee members, it is this public input which will help them make the proper decisions. All committee members supported this motion, although people who are not specifically invited will not yet be given an opportunity to address the committee. That opportunity will come at a future public meeting.)

Traffic congested in Mackayville

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

Congestion is building over traffic problems in Minden's MacKayville subdivision.

Residents of the community — which encompasses Archie Stouffer Elementary School and Hyland Crest — have submitted letters to Anson, Hindon and Minden Council as well as the Haliburton County Board of Education to voice their concerns over school bus traffic and the subdivision's single entrance.

"I'm asking you take another look at this very dangerous situation and take appropriate action as soon as possible," urged Mike Maher in his letter to council.

Maier has been trying since last year to draw attention to the subdivision's problems.

"I'm sure when the subdivision was planned that the inclusion of the Hyland Crest and Archie Stouffer School were not considered in the traffic pattern," said Maher last September. "The Hyland Crest traffic includes staff, visitors and more and more suppliers vehicles. Traffic to the school includes an ever-increasing number of school buses, teacher's vehicles, parent and supplier's delivery vehicles...All this traffic is forced up through the small funnel at the junction of MacKay Drive and the Bobcaygeon Road."

Because of the single entrance/exit onto the Bobcaygeon Road, residents are concerned that if the road was ever blocked, emergency vehicles would not be able to enter the subdivision.

"The possibility of an accident blocking this funnel for an extended period was brought to the fore last winter when an accident involving a school-bus and a citizen took place blocking MacKay Drive," said Maher.

BOE Director Brad Saunders

Maier suggested Hunter Street be extended across the east side of the Hyland Crest property and out onto County Road 1.

At the time, council acknowledged the letter, informed Maher that the school board was considering adding a new bus route into the subdivision, and encouraged him to "do whatever is necessary" to secure another entrance.

"When I read your response I felt that further follow-up would be futile as it was obvious that I would get no support from council," said Maher in his latest correspondence to council.

However, Maier has since picked up support from fellow residents. Gil Parcell and all his neighbours on Donald Street have submitted a letter to the school board endorsing Maier's proposed Hunter Street extension.

The letter also states that a hazardous situation is being created by the school bus traffic. The buses, which line up along Donald Street prior to taking up their boarding positions on the school property road, make driving along the road risky and emit noxious diesel fumes, the letter says.

With the impending addition to Archie Stouffer, residents are concerned that the traffic problems will only increase. However, along with the plans for the school addition are plans to create an alternative bus route. A new road off of Flemming Road, running along behind the houses which back onto the playing field, and out to the Bobcaygeon Road will accommodate the school buses once the addition is complete. The road will be fenced off and closed to regular vehicular traffic. Teachers, staff and parents will still approach the school through the MacKayville subdivision.

The bus route will allow, in emergency situations, access to the school, but as far as the possibility of providing emergency access for the rest of the subdivision, Director of Education Brad Saunders is cautious.

"Our major concern is for the safety of our children. That is the reason for blocking the road off. We don't want vehicular traffic running through there. If we were to open it, even for emergency vehicles, we would be putting children at risk."

Saunders said the board is willing to work co-operatively with Minden council and the residents of the subdivision to find a solution that will not jeopardize the children.

The school board has referred the matter to the Management Committee for further discussion, and Council has forwarded the letters to the Roads Committee.

TSW prepares for wet spring

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

People who draw their water supply from the Trent-Severn's reservoir lakes will have to adjust to low levels until this year's heavy build up of snow finishes melting, says a water control engineer.

Bruce Kitchen, of the Trent-Severn Waterway, says people living near reservoir lakes in the Haliburton area have been calling the TSW to complain that their wells are low or that the lake level is below their water lines.

"We ran off all the water we had (in January) and we're depending on the snow and rain to fill the lakes back up. These people will have to survive a bit longer until the melting gets going," said Kitchen.

The reservoir lakes in Haliburton County are currently at 31 per cent of their usable capacity, 10 per cent less than the March average. Even the rocky banks of the Gull River in Minden are exposed, an unusual site considering the high water levels last summer and the flooding in the fall.

"We have a little more room in the lakes than normal, but we also have a little more snow on the banks than normal. The flow is lower than average as well because of a lack of water coming in."

The TSW has lowered water levels in December and January, because of the heavy amount of accumulated snow. Kitchen says although the water levels are not quite up to average, the percentage is not unusual in a year in which there has been a significant snowfall and cold temperatures.

"It might look like we're off track, but the water is sitting on the snow banks rather than in the lake."

Computer literacy a must for students entering work world

popular computers, and graduates of the local school system have reported they do not have the skills necessary to compete successfully in our highly technological society.

The plan stresses the use of computers as an important learning resource. It calls for more computer literacy at a younger age. However, in order to achieve the plan's objectives, old equipment needs to be replaced and additional computers need to be purchased. The plan aims to improve the ratio of computers to students. Currently, the ratios are 1 computer for every 15 elementary school students and 1 computer for every 11 high school students. The plan will narrow the ratio down to 1:10 — an old, and now not totally adequate, statistic recommended by the Ministry of Education.

To carry out the plan, it will cost $855,400 in one-time expenses and approximately $66,860 annually.

In order to get the planning off to a good start the Education Committee recommended dipping into the reserve funds.

"Over five years we will be putting lots of money into computers," said Trustee Wendy Ladurantaye. "If we don't put in a substantial amount now, we will only have five years left. This amount will kick start the program and we can start affecting as many children as possible at an early age. We've just approved (the plan). So in order to make it work, we have to put some money into it."

Although all trustees voiced their support for computer education, some were hesitant about taking money from the reserve funds.

"I'm not against computers," said Nancy Stinson, "but I see $200,000 being requested now and in six months you'll come back for another $200,000."

Trustee Wayne Wood added his support to Stinson and questioned why a request for $200,000 for the computer initiative didn't come forth during budget discussions.

Ladurantaye said the plan was not released in time to be considered part of budget deliberations, and stressed that the amount taken from the reserves will certainly not be "wasted money."

Business Administrator Jim Bradley estimated that the board has $900,000 in its reserve funds. He also asked trustees to consider the fact that the computer initiative is going to cost nearly $1 million and if they don't take a substantial first step toward financing the project when the money is available, they will be pressured to allocate at least $200,000 towards the project for each of the next five years.

"We're taking a step in the right direction," said Trustee Craig Pettit referring to how budget cuts can reduce the quality of programs. "We're putting things into the classroom instead of taking them out."

Official Plan put on hold for a year

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at Wednesday's county council meeting, with all members present.

Wait a while

There will be another one-year delay on the formation of the county's Official Plan. Warden Chris Hodgson says council wants Planner Mark Stagg to continue working with the Chamber of Commerce on economic development, a partnership which has suited both parties since its inception last year. "We didn't want to jeopardize what we started."

As well, the Sewell Commission on planning and development will almost certainly result in changes to the Municipal Act. Council wants to know what those changes will be before it goes ahead with its own OP. "There's no use rushing into it."

Where are we?

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce will be given a $15,000 loan to print 50,000 copies of a new map of the Highlands. The map, which will be done by Sir Sandford Fleming College students, will be very detailed. As it is sold, the money will be used to pay back the county the $15,000 plus interest. It is hoped extra monies will also be generated.

As part of the agreement, the Chamber will give the county 10 percent of the maps at no cost.

Welfare reliance is down

For the first time in many months, spending on general welfare assistance was down in the month of February. The county department issued cheques for a total of $439,978. Although this is $13,000 less than what was spent in January, it is still much higher than the amount spent last February, $310,685. There were also fewer requests: 75 in February '93 compared to 99 in February '92. Overall, there were 578 cases, with 41 closures and seven ineligible applications. The overall caseload is up by 55 when compared to January.

Corrections

An extra 0 was added to Hyland Crest's budget — adding just a few million dollars. The county-owned senior citizens home gets a grant from the county of $449,000 a year, not $4-million.

The Echo regrets any confusion this may have caused.

In last week's article about deer feeding, one of the members of the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association was incorrectly identified. Steve Berry has been helping to distribute grain in the Hindon deer yard.

Tom Ballantine fosters students' appreciation of history

Museum seeks financial help

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

Every year, up to 400 students visit the Haliburton Highlands Museum without having to dish out a cent. But rising costs mean free admission could be history.

The museum's Board of Management has requested financial assistance from the Haliburton County Board of Education to help continue the quality level of programming offered to school groups.

"We always have activities for school tours based on teachers' particular subjects of interest," says Director Tom Ballantine, "but the number of visitors is increasing and that involves more staff for us and materials."

BOE budget is up 3.8%

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at last Tuesday's meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education:

Budget

Without much fanfare, the board approved a 3.8 per cent budget increase for 1993, subject to final grants.

Trustees agreed they want to know how much grant the board will receive before finalizing the $16,423,945 budget.

Business Administrator Jim Bradley said he has the final grant calculations and will know, within the next two weeks, the effect they will have on the budget.

Administration and trustees arrived at a 3.8 per cent budget increase after a month of discussion. The initial increase was slated for 6.7 per cent, but trustees said the increase was too high and demanded administration limit the budget increase to within 4 per cent.

On an average $1,200 tax bill for a Dysart et al resident, the 3.8 per cent increase will translate into a $23 tax hike. But taxpayers will have to be prepared to pay out even more for education because the 3.8 per cent only represents an amount above what is recognized for grant, and taxpayers are responsible to pay it plus a predetermined portion of the grant. The local share of the grant is expected to increase.

On track with transition

A resolution to proceed with the implementation of the Transition Years restructuring as planned was passed as a sign to the community, teachers and students that the board is going ahead with the curriculum and structural changes mandated by the Ministry of Education.

"We are on schedule and we will do our best," said Superintendent of Education Dale Robinson.

Transition years refers to Grades 7, 8, and 9. Part of the restructuring includes the controversial destreaming of Grade 9 basic, general, and advanced levels into one classroom. Destreaming must begin this September, although Education Minister Dave Cooke has said he will grant some flexibility to school boards not ready to implement the changes.

Some high school teachers, namely in the math, science and French departments, and some parents have requested the Haliburton County school board wait a year before destreaming Grade 9.

Robinson said the board will not deviate from its plans and destreaming will go ahead as scheduled. However, a parent's advisory committee is being set up to help alleviate parental concerns.

Why bother advertising?

Trustee Craig Pettit questioned why the board should continue to dish out $2,500 annually for meeting announcements when few if any observers show up. The board advertises the schedule of all committee meetings once a month in two local newspapers.

"I don't think we are getting any results from it," he said.

Other than a handful of people who showed up during budget discussions, the meetings rarely draw anyone except the media.

"It's too bad more people don't take advantage of the openness of this board to come out to more meetings," said Chairman Wally Bunn.

The board passed a resolution to have the Management Committee consider the matter.

Movers and shakers

As reported previously in The Echo, Gary Brohman, vice-principal of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, has been appointed principal of the school beginning Sept. 1, 1993. He will be replacing Peter Forgrave who is transferring to Archie Stouffer Elementary School to replace Principal McKay Brydon who is transferring to J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School to fill in for the retiring Doug Devolin.

The opening for vice-principal of HHSS has been posted and Director of Education Brad Saunders says staffing for next year is close to being completed.

Shelly Hunter has been hired as a temporary educational assistant at Cardiff Elementary School until June 23, 1993, and Faye Maddock of Victoria Street Elementary School will be transferring to Archie Stouffer while Laraine Forgrave will be making the opposite switch in September.

Also, as a result of the expected increase in administrative work due to the addition of Grade 6 at some of the county's elementary schools, the board approved the hiring of a half-time secretary. The secretary will cover Cardiff, Wilberforce, Gooderham and Dorset Elementary Schools.

Haliburton is choice

The Regional Education Council, consisting of school board directors and their counterparts in the Ministry of Education, is holding a two day conference in Haliburton.

About 20 people will be meeting at the Bonnie View on April 1-2. Director of Education Brad Saunders said this is the first time — he can recall — that the meeting has been held in the county.

"The more we can offer to host meetings like this in Haliburton, the more revenue we can create for the county," he said.

Pie in the sky?

To David Coulson and Associates, who recently gave this county three options for the future direction of long-term care, the least of which costs $9-million:

Please say this editorial is wrong. Please say it is overly pessimistic. Please say you have sources within the Ministry of Health who have given you silent approval for such an ambitious plan. And finally, please understand why your report is so hard to swallow.

Although this mini-history course is probably implanted in everyone's mind, let's go back to how David Coulson and Associates came to be in the Highlands in the first place. In 1987, the province agrees to fund an 18-bed chronic care unit onto the Haliburton Hospital. People respond with enthusiasm, raising $400,000 to fulfill their part of the bargain. Then, with the shovel set to go in the ground, the Ministry gets cold feet. A steering committee is set up and meets for more than a year. In a two-inch deep report, it gives four ways to distribute the 40 beds it says this county needs. Meanwhile, there's an election and in Haliburton County, the NDP get a lot of support after promising to go ahead with the beds. After much delay, the new government allocates $2.1-million to build up to 30 beds. Where should the beds go? The Haliburton County Planning and Development Committee is formed. Its members decide, in conjunction with St. Joseph's Hospital, which owns both the Minden and Haliburton hospitals, to hire Coulson and Associates to study existing infrastructure and government policies and come up with a blueprint.

On Tuesday, the respected consultants presented their three options. On paper, the options are wonderful and no one can argue against them. As society has evolved, we have gained new understanding of the sick and frail; we no longer expect a woman who has kept her own house for 60 years to move into a room with three strangers. We do a better job at keeping people safe and healthy in their homes and recognize that when they do move into a nursing facility, their needs are much greater.

But underlying the report are two large problems. The main one is this county and the province are broke. With any proposal, the county will have to fund one-third of the capital costs. At $9-million, that means $6-million from a debt-laden provincial government and $3-million from a struggling citizenship. Good luck. The second problem is the consultants do not address the tremendous loss of faith this county experienced when the first plans were put on hold. There was an overwhelming sense of betrayal and anger. Now the consultants are proposing options which cost three times more than the province has agreed to pay. Rightly or wrongly, people simply don't believe that even if they could raise $3-million, the province will come up with its $6-million. And by the time the money was raised, the standards of care will also be higher, requiring a whole new set of plans.

The people of Haliburton County have two things owed to them. Because it was the province which got us into this mess, the province must pay the outstanding $400,000 bill for architect's plans for the first 18-bed unit, plans which are now obsolete. Secondly, Coulson and Associates has an obligation to come up with an option which fits in with the funding that is presently promised. Perhaps he three options can be implemented in stages, but people need something to happen NOW.

Suddenly, the committee which was intended to be responsible for long-term healthcare also has to decide whether to build a new (acute care) Minden hospital. The consultants' report certainly hasn't made their job any easier. Just wait for the sparks to fly - if people can first believe there's a fire.

Emergency response not adequate

To the Editor

from our Readers

Editor's note: The following letter was first sent to the Ministry of Health.

Dear Sir or Madam:

On March 13th, 1993 at approximately 4:30 a.m., there was a very serious snowmobile accident in Gooderham. Liz Cain drove her new snowmobile a little too fast, lost control and hit a tree.

Her friend called the Haliburton Hospital requesting an ambulance. She was given the ambulance number to call, which she did at approximately 4:50 a.m.. The ambulance didn't come in a reasonable length of time so they had to place a second call. They were told an ambulance was on its way. Nancy Elstone, who has nurse's training, stayed with Liz and helped her as much as she could.

Liz laid on the snow-covered ground for one hour with a punctured lung, having trouble breathing. My concerns are:

- 1) Why did it take one hour for the ambulance to arrive?
- 2) Why was the Glamorgan Emergency First Response Vehicle not called to the scene. This vehicle is equipped for emergencies such as this and could have helped. I understand this is the responsibility of the ambulance dispatch.

Liz was sent via air ambulance to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto where she is in critical condition with a broken neck, broken collarbone, punctured lung, broken ribs, broken arm and internal liver bleeding. Alcohol was not a factor in this accident.

There is no sense in having the First Response Vehicle if they are not notified of these emergencies.

I am writing as a concerned parent and friend. My daughter Kim was a passenger on the snowmobile (and only received minor injuries), but I also feel the loophole in this system needs to be corrected or the next time this neglect occurs, it could be fatal.

Yours truly,
Nancy Cadieux, Agincourt

Attitudes affect tourism

To the Editor:

I read with interest comments made in The Haliburton Echo (March 16, 1993 issue) concerning the negativism prevalent in the community as regards tourists.

To quote, the Futures Committee "considers that Haliburton County's most detrimental factor is a negative attitude from residents in a number of key sectors in the economy". It went on to say "the bottom line problem with tourism in Haliburton County is the bad community attitude".

Reference to this surfaced again in the March 23 editorial. "If you talk to local teenagers, whose resentment of tourists can be surprising given that we pride ourselves as a tourist area ...". It makes one wonder how tourists have been putting up with us considering our attitude. Working in the service industry to cater to these tourists does not make us any less than the tourists we are attending to and should not make us feel inferior.

We need to change this attitude of resentment and negativism if we are to continue to be part of a viable, progressive tourist area. We have a lot to offer these city folks - not only our pristine lakes, our bountiful forests, our unequalled sceneries, not to mention our abundant snow, but we also should be able to boast of the services we can offer them from the most basic of needs to the more sophisticated enhancements of life. We can be courteous, helpful, respectful, confident in ourselves and glad that they have chosen to visit this

THEY TELL ME that spring officially arrived in Haliburton County last week. I know that spring has arrived and that summer will soon follow when you notice that some of the snowbirds who have been vacationing in the sunny south have decided to head on back to the Highlands of Haliburton. I can also tell that spring is here when the Municipality of Dysart road crew gets out the big equipment and starts to take away all the snow and ice that has accumulated over the winter months. The village streets were cleaned off last week. Hats off to the municipal employees who did a great job clearing away the debris. Another sign of spring is in the fact that local businesses and resorts are starting to advertise for help to work over those busy summer months when thousands of visitors leave the big city to head on back here to enjoy our fresh water and clean air. In the local sports world, when one thinks of spring they also think of play-off hockey. This is the time of the year when hockey teams in various divisions, look forward with great anticipation of reaching the top after playing regular scheduled games during those winter months. This is the time of year that young players play extra hard hoping to be on a championship team. For many who love the sport of skiing it's a sad time of the year. These ardent skiers know that sooner or later the skiing season will be over. Another sign of spring appears when young men and women with plenty of nerve put on their shorts in hopes of ushering in the summer season a little early. You can tell it's that time of the year once again when the local fishermen start to take their fishing huts off the lakes. What a difference it makes when the sun comes out and the days begin to warm up. Everyone seems to head downtown and many citizens can be seen shaking hands with their friends and neighbours who in many cases they have not seen since the start of the winter. In other words it's time for a re-union. It's spring time in the Highlands when some people decide that winter is over and it's time to sell their snowmobile. Others wait for spring to arrive and start thinking about buying that car or truck. I finally realized that spring had arrived when I noticed a young fellow with his arm around his girlfriend walking up the main street in Haliburton. This all goes to prove that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to love.

Frank Bird, son of Gloria Bird of Haliburton is stationed with the Canadian Forces at Ste. Foy, Quebec. We had a story about him two years ago when he went to the Persian Gulf just before the war. Now he's in training in preparation to go to the Yugoslavian conflict in May.

We are sorry to report that Lou Consy, owner of the Molou and Beaver theatres, has been a patient at Wellesley Hospital in Toronto following surgery on his spleen. We are glad to report that he is back at his home in Toronto recuperating. We join with his many friends in wishing Lou a speedy recovery.

You never know who you might meet at the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve. On Monday, March 22nd Art Oulette of Haliburton was ice fishing when his snowmobile got stuck in the slush. Moments later he noticed a man on a snowmobile coming to his aid. Little did he know at the time that he was about to meet a celebrity. Was Art ever surprised when the celebrity was none other than Donny Osmond, star of motion pictures and television. The Osmond family were vacationing at the Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve.

I have been asked to announce that the Sunday Supper Club will be holding its monthly dinner meeting at the West Guilford Community Centre this coming Sunday, April 4th starting at 5:00 p.m.

A few local notes ... congratulations to Harold Andrews of Maple Lake who celebrated his 69th birthday on Monday, March 29th ... Art Dawson of Haliburton celebrated his 41st birthday on Saturday ... Don Popple, Mike Iles and Leigh Bull all of Curry Motors Limited drove to Gravenhurst one day last week, boarded a train for Toronto, stayed at the Royal York Hotel overnight. The next day they were on their way to Oshawa to visit the truck division at General Motors. The three local men then drove three new trucks back to Haliburton ... Walter and Florence Webb returned home recently after spending several weeks in the sunny South.

CRAVING a cup of coffee

CITY SLICKER
DAVID CARROLL

PINE POINT, KENNISIS LAKE: I dig coffee. I dig the way it smells, I dig the way it tastes, I dig the way it gurgles in the percolator. I especially dig it on early summer mornings: scalding my tongue, down at the lake. Now, that's mellow.

Unfortunately, these small pleasures may soon be a thing of the past. Meet CRAVE (Canadian Rights Association for Vice-Free Employees); a powerful temperance group that is aiming to make coffee the cigarette of the nineties.

Maybe you've seen their literature. Maybe you've even attended one of their meetings. These folks are springing up everywhere, and their arguments, on the surface, seem very convincing. They contend that second-hand coffee fumes are harming Canada's workforce. They cite lost productivity due to increased bathroom breaks, and point to an alarming increase in halitosis and gingivitis. What's more, they take issue with a recent (and somewhat romantic) ad campaign for Taster's Choice coffee. You know the commercials: "Excuse me, Ma'am, but may I taste your ... coffee?" Irate at what they call a "glamorous depiction of an unhealthy lifestyle," some of CRAVE's more militant members are demanding the spots be banned.

I know it sounds silly. I wouldn't even mention it if CRAVE didn't have such impressive connections. For, as I write this, legislators are busy drafting a "Coffee In The Workplace" bill, which is expected to limit coffee consumption to two cups per day. Early drafts of the bill, leaked by its opponents, stipulated that the coffee be consumed only in ventilated coffee rooms (nicknamed "death-chambers" by CRAVE members), which are not to exceed one sixteenth the floor space of the business in question. Worse yet, the bill declares that any employee caught enjoying coffee outside of the designated rooms will be subject to federal law.

If all this sounds horrific, that's because it is. The only saving grace is with regard to decaf, which, due to its innocuous nature, will be spared by the bill.

Now, I am the first to admit that coffee has been lined with myriad of health dysfunctions, from heart palpitations to increased blood pressure. But drinking it is my choice. I have a right to be unhealthy, darnit! Why should my rights be rescinded simply because a bunch of health-freaks have some sway?

I took this question to CRAVE's head office, where I spoke with a high-strung young man who wished to remain anonymous.

"Why are you picking on coffee?" I demanded. "Because it's black," he said simply.

His answer, while not the response I had anticipated, made sense. Ever since the advent of the feature film, black has been the colour of evil. Wyatt Earp wore black. Even today, black is evil: guns are black, exhaust is black, cigarette smoke is black, coffee is black. Pepsi used to be black, but now its crystal clear. Pepsi was smart. They saw this coming.

"Have you ever suffered from shakes, stomach cramps, indigestion?" the high-strung young man asked me.

I had to admit that I did.

"You should be thanking us, then," he said proudly. "My group proposes to save you from that."

The problem is, I don't want to be saved. Like I said, I dig my vice. Later that afternoon, while seeking advice on how to fight this scourge, I called someone who was well acquainted with discrimination: a smoker.

"Give it up," he said between puffs. "These people won't give up until they save your life. They'll be banning air and water before you know it."

He may very well be right. After they outlaw coffee, CRAVE plans to ban other black products, such as chocolates, brownies, cola and peppercorns.

Fortunately, coffee fiends are starting to fight back. Last week, hundreds of men and women banded together for a demonstration in the House of Commons. They hoisted up posters of Juan Valdez and hurled used filters from the gallery seats. "Let my Java be!" they chanted. Ricardo Montalban led the charge.

If this display was any indication, coffee may well become the 1993 election issue. Luckily, there's still time to organize. Coffeeheads unite! Seize the beans and perk yourself up! Let's brew some trouble on Parliament Hill!

Spring thaw at the Muenzels

NORTHERN LIGHTS
VIRGINIA MUENZEL

I'VE GOT TO PAY CLOSER attention when my husband tells me something. Especially if I intend to write it down later and send it off to this paper. Now I find myself in the position of having to make a retraction.

Ed laughed when he saw what I had quoted him as saying. And a couple of days later Madelyn Doyle asked him what kind of funny stuff were we growing in our greenhouse.

It was the column about Spring. You see, Ed didn't see a robin. He saw Robin. I'm surprised I didn't get any phone calls from the Naturalists' Club.

However, Spring is definitely here. And I have a sunny yellow dandelion in full bloom to prove it. Before you reach for the phone, Jim Elstone, let me ease your mind. It's one of the funny things that are growing in my greenhouse.

I did get a couple of phone calls about the Junior Kindergarten column. One woman wants to discuss the fact that she thought my information about the New Zealand money crunch was wrong. I had company and couldn't take the time to talk with her. However, my information came from WS, which, I understand, is going to repeat the program sometime in May due to the response they got. We'll see then if I have to eat a piece of humble pie.

Another woman called to chat about the real issue of that column, which, of course, is the fact that the governments really must stop instituting services which the taxpayers can't afford.

By the way, Martha, the title of that column was supposed to be 'The Pacifier and BANKY Class of '94'. That's what one of my babies called their tattered old, drag around blanket. I wanted to call it 'Cheuch and Banky, but I wasn't sure how to spell Stephanie's name for her since discarded dummy.

Last week I received some nice, sympathetic comments from cat owners. It took me a long time to get around to putting Yeti's misfortune down on paper. I was almost afraid I would jinx him.

I finally let him go out the door unsupervised. I was so paranoid. But, apparently, his buddy, Smokey was concerned as well. Yeti had to sniff out his outside turf. It's a pretty big area. I watched, until they disappeared, and Smokey was tracking his friend all the way. They were gone an hour and a half. They returned together, and took a very long nap.

The Muenzel household is impatiently enduring the thaw. Ed is in his trench digging mode. I like to spread out the snow piles on my flower beds. And I'm itching to empty out and re-organize the greenhouse this week so I can start a few seedlings. Last Thursday was so gorgeous, I couldn't help myself. I filled a planter with earth from the vermi-poster and planted some red sails lettuce.

But, I guess I can't plant my peas while they're still skiing at Sir Sam's.

This'll pin your ears back

A COUPLE OF WEEKS ago, we got involved with a couple of serious ideas, ones on a larger scale. Like using old tires to create safety barriers between traffic lanes instead of costly concrete - and getting scofflaws to cough up the money for their traffic fines, which might just help pay for such safety items.

Well, frankly, there are a lot of good ideas going around out there, even though I must admit most of them aren't of that magnitude. Still, it doesn't mean they don't deserve our attention.

Take, for instance, the Earries, which were patented and put on sale by a Portland, Oregon company. The idea may have been triggered by all the attention that Ross Perot attracted in the U.S. election, or Prince Charles got with his marriage woes - or even by the pictures of Alfred E. Neuman on the cover of Mad magazine.

Earries, you see, are adhesive devices designed to temporarily pin back protruding ears. They will stick the back of the ear to the side of the head, the manufacturers say, for the five percent of the population who have what are called "prominently obtrusive ears."

Too trivial for you? Not likely to be useful in Haliburton? Well, how about the great new Optronics surveillance audio/video cameras now being installed not in bank lobbies or convenience stores, but in school buses!

Operators say it's a school bus driver's dream. A sturdy plastic box above the rearview mirror has a wide-angle camera lens that takes in a view of the whole bus. A little red light flashes continually, perhaps as a reminder that the tape may be running.

I say "may," because, as a cost-saving measure, only one in five of the boxes has a camera in them on a given day, the cameras are rotated from bus to bus, and neither the kids nor the bus driver knows if their bus is being recorded "live" on any particular day - but the kids apparently don't want to take any chances.

You see, if there's a problem, the driver reports it, the assistant principal checks out the tapes, and can discipline the problem kids - even play it back for his folks if it is a serious enough offense.

The bus drivers say it has replaced all the smoking, shouting, hitting and spitball-throwing with well-behaved children who actually stay put in their seats. And many of the kids are now admitting that they enjoy the quiet bus rides to and from school.

And, next to pantyhose or stockings, I can't think of anything that seems more designed to have a short life-span than the ordinary light bulb. It goes back to around 1873, when two Canadians solved the problem of the gas needed to surround the carbon filament.

Two Toronto neighbours - Henry Woodward, a U of T medical student, and Matthew Evans, a hotel keeper - actually patented their bulb in 1874. Being Canadians, their biggest problem was getting adequate financing to develop their invention, in spite of letting a few money people in on the deal.

One of these financiers managed to take over the patent and sell it to Thomas Edison, who had lots of money behind him in the States, and it solved the underlying problems with the system he had been working on in 1879.

Now, out of California comes a new electronic bulb without a filament - a major cause of bulb failure. Instead, a magnetic coil inside a gas-filled bulb generates a high-frequency radio signal that causes a plasma that - like the fluorescent bulb invented in the 30s - causes a phosphor coating on the inside of the bulb to glow.

Known as the "E-Lamp," it is estimated to last about 20,000 hours, which is about 13 years longer than your regular, incandescent bulb. It'll cost $10 to $20 each, but will save between $50 and $100 over its lifetime by burning 75 percent less electricity.

I guess we could really call this one ... a bright idea.

Making his way in the world

DOWN OUR ROAD
SHARON LYNCH

It used to bother Pete, bother him a lot. But gradually his skin toughened until he reached the point where he didn't even notice anymore. Well, hardly noticed. By the time he was in his final year of high school, Pete was used to being a loner. He just didn't fit in.

When he had started high school, Pete was expected to act a certain way because he looked a certain way. Few of the other students had known him at the beginning of grade nine because he came from an isolated corner of the county. He was staying at his cousin's farm while he attended high school. So Pete was an unknown quantity to most. And while he was practical, as opposed to fashionable jeans, plaid flannel shirts and nameless running shoes, his demeanour was not quite country enough to suit many. He was, some said, almost arrogant. "I mean, who does he think he is?" queried one young male, freshly tanned from a summer of water skiing.

Back then Pete thought he was like everyone else. At fourteen years of age, he lived in terrified awe of the opposite sex while every waking minute, tumultuous hormones coursed through his veins. A senseless optimism coloured his vision as he faced an additional five years of learning, more than anyone in his family had ever achieved. But he didn't look right and he unspoiled part of Canada called Haliburton.

Recognizing the need to educate local workers to make themselves marketable and improve this dismal state in the service field, the Community Industrial Training Committee and the C.E.I.C. in cooperation with Sir Sandford Fleming College has launched an eight week course called Quality Customer Service/Personal Selling Program. It focuses on understanding oneself, of Business Practices, Consumer Behavior, Sales Techniques, Frontline Customer Service and other topics relevant to an improved customer-worker interaction. Graduates from such a program could be the core of improved service in the community. Involvement of the various local businesses in terms of sending their workers to the course or taking of the course themselves would be ideal.

This may seem like one little insignificant step but can mean a giant leap for the future of businesses in Haliburton County.

Wilberforce plays host to successful tourney

The 92-93 Tri-County Tyke Tournament playoffs were held in Wilberforce last weekend and they were a resounding success! next year they might have to rename it the WD-40 tournament because it was run as smoothly as a well oiled machine! The hard work put in by the executive of the Wilberforce Minor Hockey Association and all the volunteers paid off with all out of town visitors impressed by all there was to see and do (clown show, movies, fire truck climbing etc.) Teams travelled from all over showing the strength of our local hockey programs, even at the tyke level and the future of hockey in Canada looks very bright!

If you have never watched Tyke hockey it is a joy to behold. The little guys/gals may have small legs but they have big hearts, and they all give 110 percent. No matter how many times they fall down they jump right back up and chase the puck again.

In the mite division (aged 3-4) there were four teams. In the consolation round Haliburton outlasted Bobcaygeon and in the championship it was Little Britain over Oakwood. Medallions were handed out after every game for most dedicated (M.V.P.), most improved and most sportsmanlike (Thanks to Imperial Oil 'Esso' for the beautiful medals). For Haliburton most dedicated went to Jessie Johnson; most improved, Jonathan Sharpley and most sportsmanlike, Chris Martin. For Bobcaygeon Nathan Ekblad got the dedicated, Shayna Coaker the M.I.P. and Brent Tate was the sportsman. For little Britain the M.P. went to Stephen Johnurfesc, M.I.P. went to Michael Harrison and M.S. to Shane Reilly.

Oakwood's most dedicated was Jason Alger, improved was Lucas Wallace and sportsman was Scott Bacon.

In the Minor Tykes Division (aged 5, 6, 7) teams came from Bobcaygeon, Cannington, Fenelon Falls (2), Haliburton, Manvers, Minden, Oakwood, Woodville and Wilberforce in the consolation round Manvers and M.S. to Shane Reilly.

DROPPING THE CEREMONIAL PUCK: MP Bill Scott joined other local dignitaries for the official opening of a weekend-long Tyke tournament in Wilberforce on Saturday afternoon.

IN PLAYOFF HOCKEY, good goaltending is essential. This was evident in this year's edition of the W.O.H.L. playoffs as it can truly be said that all the goaltenders were outstanding in their nets.

The 'A' division match had the Haliburton Hawks taking on Bancroft Canadian Tire. This was a tight checking game with few scoring chances. The Hawks' Larry Hartin and C.T.C.'s Craig Walton were there to make the saves when the attackers did get through. The score was 2-0 after two for the Hawks; both goals were from Bob Woodcock. An early goal in the third by Derrell Stamp made it 3-0. Canadian Tire buzzed Haliburton throughout the third but managed only one from Ralph Keeler. End result: Haliburton 3, Canadian Tire 1. Congrats to the 'A' champs, Haliburton Hawks.

Talk about goaltending, Bancroft I.G.A.'s Gord Stire stood on his head as his team net Wilberforce Golden Ponders for the 'B' title. Gord was unconscious for two and a half periods when, unfortunately, he was injured and had to leave the game. Blaine Lewis was equally as good in the Ponder net. Nothing could stop the scoring machine that has come to be known as the Ponders, as they chipped away all game amassing ten goals. I.G.A. couldn't solve Lewis and came up pointless. Head chippers for Wilberforce were Ken Ablett with four (that's Ken Sr.), Brian Montgomery and Ken Riley had two each, and the versatile Ralph Gould had a loner. Way to be Ponders! 'B' division winners.

In the 'C' division it was Apsley vs. Rainbow Auto Glass. This was perhaps the closest game of the night, with action back and forth and good net-minding by Apsley's Phil Rusaw and Rainbow's Dave Logan. The Rainbows finally found their pot of gold as they nudged out the feisty Apsley team 6-4, the last goal into the empty net. For the Rainbow warriors it was Stewart Semple with two, singles went to Tom Armstrong, Doug Calder, Paul Ellis, and Dean Card. For Apsley Greg Tucker, Al Gronman, Guy Markham and Bill Roter all bulged twine. Hats off to the Homers, 'C' champs.

Win or lose all teams received a beautiful trophy (generously supplied by Jenkins music in Bancroft. The main thing is we had fun! See you next year.

Champions! Novices shine against Stirling

The Haliburton Novice Huskies played back to back away games this weekend to defeat the Stirling Jets and win the C-DD Zone Championship.

Heading into Game Three at Stirling with the series tied at one apiece, Haliburton jumped into the lead with three goals in the first period, and never looked back. Warren Cooper, Jeff Wilson and Scot Curry led the charge, with assists for their goals coming from Ryan Wood, Adam Henry, and Chris Nimigon. Ryan Wood and Jamie Luck scored in the second, and Wood added another in the third to win the game with a strong 6-3 final score. Assists went to Chris Petrow, Warren Cooper, Chris Nimigon, Ryan Kirkpatrick and Jamie Luck.

Back to Haliburton for Game four, the Huskies surprised Stirling with a super quick start. Ryan Wood and Jamie Luck, assisted by Jeff Wilson and Warren Cooper, scored two goals on the first shift to take a fast lead. Stirling fought back with two goals in the first, but Ryan Wood again took the lead for the Huskies with his goal from Cooper and Luck in the second period. Stirling came in with another goal in the third, but goalie Ryan Chalmers, aided by his tough defensemen, Ryan Kirkpatrick, Kyle Robinson, Chris Petrow and Chris Nimigon staved off further efforts. Scot Curry clinched the game for Haliburton with his shot from Adam Henry and Jeff Wilson late in the third to end the game at 5-3.

Congratulations to the Coaching Staff - Rick Wood, John Robinson, Floyd Henry and Paul Wilson for a super job, and to all the players - Ryan Chalmers, Warren Cooper, Scot Curry, Adam Henry, Ryan Kirkpatrick, Jamie Luck, Chris Nimigon, Chris Petrow, Kyle Robinson, Jeff Wilson and Ryan Wood, for a fine team effort.

The Novices have now won the Zone Championships for the second year running. Let's hope the trend continues!

Atomic blast nets eleven goals - and two losses

The Haliburton OMHA Atom Huskies find themselves in a hole, down by two games, after the first weekend of play in their best 4-out-of-7 series with the West Lorne Comets in the All-Ontario "DD" finals.

The Atom Huskies played well in the two games in West Lorne but nevertheless they were shocked. They were not shocked by laying the best team they have faced this season. A team that features three shooting stars, skates well and moves the puck well. They were not shocked by playing the best player they have faced this season. Number 77 for West Lorne is a super skater, rushes the puck like Bobby Orr, passes and unleashes a slapshot from anywhere on the ice that is harder than any other Atom player's shot. No, the Atom Huskies were shocked by playing a team whose only game plan is offence, pure offence.

Haliburton scored 11 goals in the two games. Normally this would have been enough to win both games. But West Lorne outscored them 10 to 6 in the first game and 8 to 5 in the second. Only once before this season, early in the year in an exhibition game, have the Huskies had more than seven goals scored against them. West Lorne's outstanding offence is most noticeable on the power play.

The Huskies were nervous in the Saturday game; they were playing the first game of the All-Ontario final in the other team's rink after an extremely long trip. West Lorne took advantage scoring early, taking a 4 to 1 lead into the second period. The Huskies staged a rally scoring two early in the second to bring them within one goal. But penalties hurt. A Huskie took two two-minute penalties at the same time and by the time he came out of the box West Lorne had scored on both of them running the score to 6 to 3. Haliburton scored two more in the second to West Lorne's three. The Huskies did not give up. In the third period they played West Lorne even up with each team scoring once for the final score of 10 to 6.

Greg Forgrave was the sniper for the Huskies with a hat trick and an assist. Centre Kenny Ablett showed his skill with four assists and a goal. Captain Mike Morissette notched the other two goals and added two assists. Devon Dart and Ryan Simioni

Redmen ready to serve up another title

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

With some of the strongest hitters in the league, the Redmen badminton teams are striving to serve up the same kind of competitive play that netted them victory last season.

"We peaked last year. It was one of our best years," says coach and teacher Glen Scully. "This year we're building."

"But our strength is our power. We play a power game and we probably have the hardest hitters in the league."

Last year, the junior team won the Central Ontario (COSSA) championships and the senior women's double team of Jenna Stutt and Jen Bradford went on to the all-Ontario (OFSSA) competition.

Scully admits the senior team has lost a lot of good players because of graduation, but Stutt and Bradford have not moved on.

"Last year was their first crack at OFSSA, so we're hoping they will do well."

Tryouts for this popular high school sport are just winding down. About 85 people came out to compete for a spot on the junior and senior teams. Scully believes the popularity of badminton stems from the team's track record.

"It's probably because we're so successful. We've won the Kawartha West tournament probably 19 out of the last 20 years."

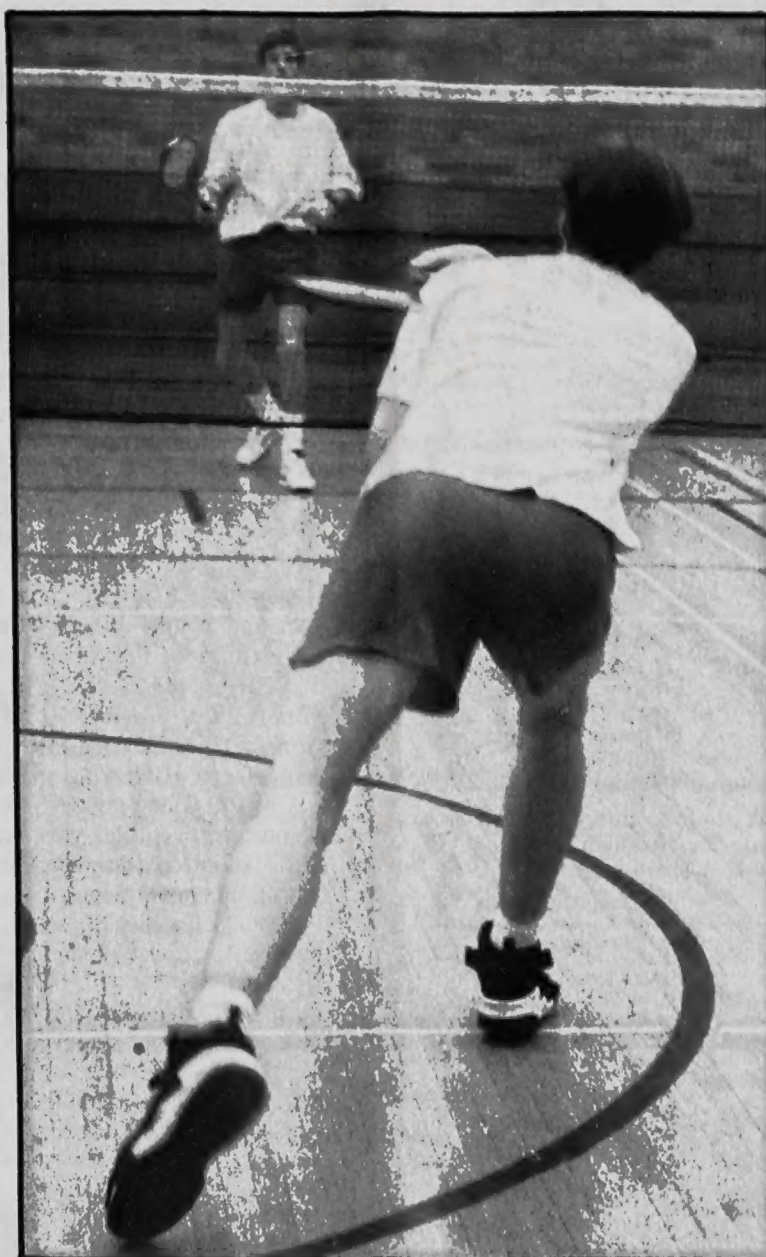

"The reason the sport itself is so popular is because everyone can play badminton. It doesn't matter what level people are at. As long as you have four people of equal capability, you can enjoy it."

From a list of 85, Scully will have to make up two teams of eight. For both the junior (coached by Scully) and senior teams (coached by Ron Yake and assisted by Robert Meyers), two single players, a men's double, a women's double and a mixed double team will be chosen.

The Redmen's first competition will be the Kawartha West tournament in Lindsay on April 5th, followed by weekly tournaments up to the OFSSA meet at the beginning of May. The badminton season is short at HHSS, mainly because it has to squeeze in between the volleyball and the soccer, tennis, and track and field seasons. Also, there are few competitive high school teams within a manageable travelling distance.

Another thing that puts the Redmen at a disadvantage is the fact that while the team gears up for badminton with less than a month of practice, other high school teams have been playing since the fall.

"Our weakness is we don't have a club up here," says Scully. "It's bad that we're crunched into a small amount of time." However, with the team's past successes, the upcoming Kawartha West tournament is sure to be a birdie in the hand.

each had an assist.

The second game on Sunday was a different story. The Huskies were tired playing the second game of the road trip but they showed that they had come to play hockey. The 8 to 5 score is misleading. In fact it was a one goal game. As the Huskies pressed in the final minute of the third to tie it up West Lorne scored with 49 seconds to go and then added an empty net goal. The Huskies shocked West Lorne in the first period, out-playing them and taking a 3 to 0 lead. But penalties hurt. In a three-minute span at the end of the first and beginning of the second number 77 tied the game with two of his three goals coming on the power play. As the second went on, the Huskies tired and West Lorne led at the end of the second 6 to 4. Again, the third period was even up with the Huskies scoring the only goal, to come within one, before West Lorne's two goals in the final minute.

Kenny Ablett was flying again with two goals and an assist. Ryan Simioni, with two goals, played one heck of a game. Mike Morissette notched the other goal while Greg Forgrave had two assists and Devon Dart and Greg Luck one each.

The Huskies received some extra fan support on Sunday when Bill Hellems, a West Guilford boy now a resident of St. Thomas, showed up to cheer them on.

The series moves to Haliburton this weekend for games 3 and 4 on Saturday at 7:00 p.m. and Sunday at 1:00 p.m. Please come out to the games to see the local boys in this exciting playoff series.

downed Cannington. Manvers most dedicated was Matt Gray, most improved was Andrew Sutch and most sportsman was Simon Webers. Most dedicated for Cannington was Flynn Ryan Bailey, M.I.P. was Mark Underwood and the Sportsman was Tyler Beaudry.

The championship final was between the two Fenelon Teams. As with most of the games the stands were packed and the fans were rewarded with a close game when Fenelon #2 edged out Fenelon #1 by one goal. Heros for the #2 team were Dylan Archer, M.D., Lance Junkin M.I.P. and David Greer M.S. for Fenelon #1, Travis Magee was M.D., Chris Burnie M.I.P. and Bradie Liscombe was the sportsman.

In a humbling ceremony at the end of the tourney refs Damen Smith, Andre Quirron and Chris Nicholls were made to kneel at centre ice while the little ones gave them medals for their hard work over the weekend.

This tournament put Wilberforce on the map. The next time an event is held here you won't hear people saying "Wilberwho?"

Annual Glen Dart tourney where memories are made by CREIGHTON FEIR

WHEN THE CHEERING begins, and the sound of the puck hitting the back boards puts shivers up your back, you will know that the 41st version of the Glen Dart Tournament is underway. The big event, which starts at 9:00 a.m. this coming Saturday April 3, will once again be played at the arena in Haliburton. One more game has been added this year and from 9:00 a.m. until the finish after 5:00 p.m. a total of seven games will have been played. Teams from Haliburton in the Mite, Minor Tyke, Novice, Atom and PeeWee divisions will take on teams from Ennismore, Wilberforce, Huntsville and Minden.

Over 100 young hockey players will take part in the one day event this year which begins at 9 a.m. with Haliburton's Mighty Mites taking on a team from Ennismore. Each of Haliburton's other six Tri-County teams will face off for a game before the tournament is wrapped up around supper time.

A standout player for the Haliburton Huskies in the 1940's, Glen Dart was very much involved in the community and served as the town's recreation director for a number of years before his premature death in 1950. The very next year, the soon to be classic tournament was started and thousands of young hockey players from around Central Ontario are now familiar with the Glen Dart Tournament and the name Glen Dart.

Times may have changed but the tradition will continue on Saturday and although the tourney may not be as popular as it was in the past, many young players tell me that they still look forward to taking part.

When this popular tournament began back in 1951 the arena was packed to capacity with young and old alike turning out to cheer on their young favourites. Enthusiasm ran high and fans planned ahead weeks in advance to make sure they were at the arena in time to get a good seat.

Some of the players who have played in past tournaments have gone on to bigger and better things in the world of hockey. Many of these players went on to play in the junior ranks while others were fortunate enough to make it to the National Hockey League. Ron Stackhouse went to the Peterborough Petes of the Junior "A" then on to the National Hockey League where he played with the Oakland Seals, Detroit Red Wings and, finally the Pittsburgh Penguins. Bernie Nicholls went from Haliburton to the Kingston Canadiens and then on to the NHL with the Los Angeles Kings, New York Rangers, Edmonton Oilers and is now playing with the New Jersey Devils. Others went on to play semi pro hockey in Canada and the United States.

To all young participants who will be taking part in the hockey tournament this Saturday we offer this bit of advice. Remember its nice to win, but winning isn't everything. Give it your best and you will be judged in the manner in which you played the game. See the line-up of games to be played in an advertisement in this issue of the Echo.

Was it summer or winter? People at Sir Sam's Ski Area couldn't make up their minds so they wore summer clothes as they shooshed down the slopes for the Curry Motors Giant Slalom. Skiers celebrate spring's arrival with giant slalom at Sir Sam's

The sun was glittering in the white snow, the music was blaring, and people didn't know whether to lie out on the chalet's deck to get a suntan or compete in the Curry Motors Giant Slalom.

This wasn't a competition, it was a party to herald the arrival of spring.

Then again, this was Sir Sam's Ski Hill so many people opted to race in the annual event and get a suntan at the same time. On a glorious Saturday afternoon, there were just as many people shooshing down the hill in shorts and t-shirts as there were people wearing the colourful and more traditional ski suits.

The warm sun made for a fast race for the almost 100 skiers. In the ladies category, first place went to Erin Fenninger with a time of 30.11 seconds. Following her were Wendy Rehacek with 30.86 seconds and Andrea Fenninger with 31.35.

The men weren't that much faster. Scott Burke had the winning time of 29.80 seconds. Jeremy Durkin came in second with 30.08 seconds, and third was Michael Godbold with 30.37.

What added to the festive atmosphere was the costumes. In first place was dragon Claire Weenen. Victoria Fenninger was a wee bunny rabbit and came in second and Grant Cruikshank's day as a woman earned him the third prize.

Weather permitting, skiing will continue until the Easter weekend. And although last weekend felt like summer, Highlands history says there will be at least one more snow storm before winter takes a bow.

Women honoured for Legion volunteer work

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

After years of serving others, four women basked in an evening of appreciation during the Haliburton Legion Ladies Auxiliary Honours and Awards Night.

Through applause and kind words, Margaret Finlay, Uena Ball, Vera Dean and Elsie Craig were told that their years of hard work and dedication had not gone unnoticed.

Mrs. Finlay, of Tory Hill, was awarded a Lifetime Membership, the second highest Auxiliary honour. The other three women were honoured for having achieved their 80th birthdays. As Mrs. Dean noted when being congratulated for such a feat, "It takes a long time to do."

"You have given unselfishly and voluntarily to promote the worth of this organization," said Provincial L.A. President Phyllis Montemiglio in the ceremony after the delicious dinner. On a cautionary note, she said that in the modern world which is emerging, "kindness and understanding do not seem to be high priorities. Back biting and rudeness seem to be the order of the day."

Ladies Auxiliaries are not immune. She's seen far too many examples of Auxiliaries torn apart by personality conflicts and lack of communication. To avoid this, she had some advice: "Give your enthusiasm to others, make others feel important, forgive yourself if you fail, keep your promises, and say 'we' not 'I' when speaking of Auxiliary accomplishments."

"Canadians are known the world over for being peacekeepers. As Legion members, we must set an example of peace at home."

She closed by reminding everyone of the L.A. motto: May we strive by all proper means to promote the work of this organization. "Live by this rule or we don't deserve to be members."

Phyllis Montemiglio

said Mrs. Montemiglio, who has served the Lindsay L.A. for 37 years.

In bringing her greetings from Zone F4, Commander Margaret McLean said that by their efforts, the women being honoured did indeed deserve to be proud members. Uena Ball, who turns 80 this August, has served the L.A. for 29 years; Vera Dean, who turned 80 last July, has been with the organization for 24 years; Elsie (Isobel) Craig, who turned 80 last December, has served for eight years.

"They've seen so much in this world," said MP Bill Scott. "The Legion can be proud of them - they've contributed much to our society in many, many ways... You ladies stand for much of what has been done to make this country what it is today. You have made this a great place to live. We as Canadians have to be proud of our comrades, our ladies, and all the members of our armed forces.

A rather bewildered Margaret Finlay didn't know why her two sons were leading her to the front of the Legion auditorium. But Mrs. Montemiglio soon made it very clear why Mrs. Finlay had been nominated by her peers to receive the life membership distinction.

Mrs. Finlay joined the Haliburton Ladies Auxiliary in 1965, and since then has sat on or presided over nearly every committee, as well as serving on the executive. She's a well known and highly regarded member of St. Margaret's and St. George's Anglican churches, and has often shared her talents and abilities as a cook and seamstress. She was elected to the school board and to Monmouth council. She has also sat on the local library board and heritage guild and volunteered for the CNIB and Extendingcare. When her late husband, Harry, owned Finlays Store in Tory Hill, the bastion of that community, Mrs. Finlay was the helpful and knowledgeable postmistress. For many years, she taught driver's education at the high school. More recently, she has become known as a champion organizer of Daffodils, a support group for cancer patients. This year under her leadership, the cancer society fundraising campaign garnered a record number of pledges. She has done all this while battling her own cancer with grace and strength, providing inspiration and succour to many.

"I don't think I've read a longer list of volunteer activities," said an out-of-breath provincial president, who has her own impressive list of volunteer accomplishments. "You're a real marvel. I'd

Hydro Announces New Heat Pump Incentive Program

If you are considering the possibility of installing a heat pump in your home, you can apply for the special incentive program offered by Hydro. An application does not obligate you to go through with the program, but if you are accepted, Hydro will give you $1500. cash back or $750. and financing at 2% below prime. Anyone with existing electric heat, or building a new home, should consider using this type of system. And if you think you cannot afford it, think again, for many systems are installed with no money down and payments equal to or less than their existing heating costs. Ground source heat pumps are increasingly popular for their low use of Hydro and high efficiency. Essentially, they convert the solar heat stored in the ground into heat for your home. There is a very short pay back period because of the decreased use of Hydro and the initial cost is now affordable for the average home owner.

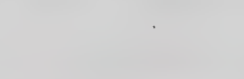

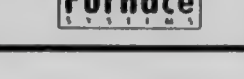

Do not delay this program ends October 1993

Jasco Tykes split games against 'Caygeon Cougars

Bobcaygeon met the Jasco Tykes Saturday morning in Haliburton for a round robin playoff bout. The Huskies had the Cougars number all season but they weren't going to roll over and play dead.

Haliburton got on the board first when Norm Smith and Jason Chambers set up Kyle Boughner in the slot and he fired a wrist shot in the top right corner.

The Cougars game storming back with three quick goals. Half way through the second Norm Smith sank one for the Huskies with Shawn MacInnes and Jamie Sala drawing the assists. With 1:45 left in the second period the Cougars hit pay dirt again but with one second left on the clock Jamie Sala banged one in to draw the Huskies closer. Ross Gerry picked up the assist.

Down 4-3 the Huskies were fighting to catch the 'Caygeon boys but this would be the Cougars' Day as they scored two in the third period to clinch the victory. After the game coach Jim Winn asked Dustin Brindeville in this goal tending debut how he liked laying net? He replied "It stinks!"

Sunday at 6 p.m. the Huskies returned the favor and were in Bobcaygeon for their final play-off game. With Woodville and Little Britain wrapping up 1st and 2nd place Haliburton could nail third place with a win or a tie against 'Caygeon. The Haliburton players and fans were happy to see Dusty back out on right wing doing what he does best - checking and digging, and overjoyed to see the cat, Andy Dawson, back in the twine. Andy came up with some awesome saves en route to a 3-3 tie.

Scoring for the Huskies were Jamie Sala with the Hat Trick, Norm Smith, André Nichol and Shawn MacInness Drawing one assist each.

Next game is Sat. April 3 at 11:30 a.m. Huntsville in Haliburton for the Glen Dart Tournament. The Tykes extend congratulations to the O.M.H.A. Novices who beat Sterling on Sunday to win it all.

Hyland Crest needs a doctor

Dr. Stephen Dawson of Minden has resigned as the medical director for Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home. All doctors, practising and retired, in the area are being invited to apply for the position. The director, who is responsible for all medical care, would sit on committees to give advice and support to staff. (Residents do have their own attending physicians.) It is a one-year contract position.

CAS and health unit budgets

Monmouth Reeve Keith Tallman, the county's representative on the boards of the Children's Aid Society's and the District Health Unit, says the province has promised not to reduce CAS funding this year. However, there might not be an increase either, even though the CAS expects it will have to hire additional caseworkers because of an increase in cases. An extra caseworker would not be placed at the Haliburton office, which has been short-staffed since one worker moved away in the new year.

The county's levy for CAS increased 6.49 percent to $81,360. Council has previously protested having to pay more to receive fewer services in the county.

The Health Unit has been told it will get a two percent increase in provincial grants in '93. But there's a price - in 1994, grants will go back down to 1992 levels. As a result, workers may be asked to take a three- to four-day lay-off without pay. The county's portion of the Health Unit budget is $117,900, an increase of four percent.

retire if I had to follow you around."

Mrs. Finlay's emotional response was indicative of her kind personality: "I don't understand how I could deserve such a thing."

In a citation, Premier Bob Rae says Mrs. Finlay's selflessness has "benefited citizens of all ages and backgrounds who have been touched by your genuine concern."

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney noted Mrs. Finlay's role in an organization that exemplifies the spirit of fellowship and national pride."

There were also greetings and accolades for all four women from Haliburton County Warden Chris Hodgson, who presented them with plaques, and MPP Dennis Drainville, who was unable to attend.

At the end of the evening, L.A. President Kay Wylie presented Branch 129 President Wally Chambers with a cheque for $2,000 for the building fund.

Museum feels the pinch

planting gardens to spinning wool. Usually, the museum supplies the potato seeds or covers the honourarium to bring in a weaver.

However, over the past several years costs for materials have risen and the museum has had to schedule extra staff to accommodate the growing number of student visitors.

"There is pressure on us in terms of the economy," says Ballantine.

Ballantine adds that the museum is not in any financial trouble and in fact, individual teachers and principals have made voluntary contributions towards the costs. But the Board of Management is anticipating future financial stresses and as such is requesting assistance.

"I can't think of a museum that doesn't charge money," says

Ballantine.

Each year, the museum budget allows for expenses related to public programming, and those expenditures have not been cut. However, the Board of Management is requesting a programming fee of $1 per student. And the museum would like to see the Board of Education make a provision in its budget to cover the fee as opposed to making the children pay.

The Board of Education has referred the request to the Education Committee for further discussion.

In the meantime, Ballantine says the museum will continue to offer school groups a free trip to the past.

"We're not going to turn kids away. We're not going to take away something just because (the board) says no (to the request)."

Tykes wrap up season

A strong team from Cannington blocked the Haliburton Minor Tyke team from advancing to the final round during the playoff tournament. But who can complain after three exciting games of hockey and a whole weekend of Wilberforce hospitality.

The Haliburton team played well and each player came away with a hard earned medal. Most sportsmanlike players were Josh Fick, Matthew Roberts and Kyle Espie. Most improved players were Joey Sisson, Travis Burke and Greg Nimigon. Robert Ainsley and Nick Judge were selected as most dedicated.

The Huskies would like to thank Haliburton Home Hardware, Elstone motors and Curry Motors for their generous donations. Also congratulations to the Haliburton Mites who were the "B" Division Champs.

Arena taking its toll on drivers

by JANET HURLEY
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at last Thursday's meeting of Anson, Hinton and Minden Council (Reeve Bern Berry and Councillor Jeanne Anthon were on holidays):

A toll on drivers

While the province is throwing around the idea of highway toll booths, drivers wanting to cross the Union Bridge in Minden will be asked to cough up some change for a good cause.

The Lions Club has been given permission to set up a toll booth at the Union Bridge on Saturday, May 22nd from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The toll will be a voluntary contribution and the 50 per cent of the money raised will go towards the Minden Arena's Plexiglas fund.

Last year, the Lions collected approximately $1,100 on one sunny, hot May day.

Fire protection issue doused

The municipality's fire department has reverted back to its original fire protection agreement with Snowdon Township as a result of Snowdon reaching an agreement with Somerville Council.

For the past five months, the issue of fire protection coverage for Snowdon Township has incited fiery debate. In the past, Snowdon was covered by Dysart et al, AHM and Somerville townships. However last October, Somerville Township, which is in Victoria County, asked for a 35 per cent increase for Snowdon's standby fee. It wanted $12,000 to respond to fires in the southern half of Snowdon instead of $9,000. Snowdon balked at the increase and instead, asked Dysart et al and AHM to extend their coverage. Dysart et al and AHM eventually agreed.

However, Snowdon and Somerville have recently come to an agreement that would provide coverage to the areas previously covered by Somerville and therefore amendments to the coverage areas as proposed between Snowdon and AHM are no longer required.

Name game

The debate over "Highland Road" continues.

In January, council requested the Ministry of Transportation change the name of Highland Road to Highland Road West in order to avoid confusion with a similarly named road a few kilometres away in Stanhope Township.

Both roads intersect Highway 35 with one servicing Twelve Mile Lake and the other, Hawk Lake.

Council believed adding "West" to the name would help identify the AHM road.

However, council recently received letters from Stanhope Fire Chief Bob Nangle, Haliburton District Ambulance Manager Bill Higginson and OPP Sgt. D.H. Bernardi stating their concern over the name change. They all agreed that the names of the roads were still not significantly different.

didn't act right.

Pete didn't keep his head down in front of the well-dressed daughters and smoothly styled sons of doctors and prominent business owners. He laughed too much, smoked too little and couldn't care less what he wore as long as it was reasonably clean. The teachers expected average effort and were surprised to discover just how inaccurate their appraisals had been. Some even resented his academic achievements. After all, no one likes to be wrong.

"Why do you want to keep going to school anyway, Pete?" asked his cousin Lou. Lou had left school after grade eight and still managed to support himself, Shirley and the three children in a paid-for house. To Lou, school was a kind of punishment, a barrier to getting out into the real world to make an honest living. Pete liked Lou a lot but he wasn't sure Lou would understand.

But he wanted to try. "Lou, remember that time two winters ago when you had the accident with the tree and almost lost your hand? Remember how scared you were at the thought of not being able to work and how tight the money was while you were getting better?" Here Lou's eyes clouded for a minute with the memories Pete was conjuring up.

"Lou, I want to be able to go anywhere I want to work without having to worry about living here or moving to the city. I don't want to be afraid of hurting my hands, or legs or back because I'll only need my mind to do the job. I want to be able to save money for my old age and never have to be worried about what people think of my clothes or the way I talk or even if I laugh too much or at the wrong time. I want to make my own choices and my own way in this world and I figure the closest thing to that kind of insurance is education. From where I sit Lou, there's a lot more unemployed mechanics and loggers out there, than doctors or lawyers. Does that make any sense?"

Halfway through this spiel of Pete's, Lou had stopped swinging his axe so he could catch all the words. Just as he was about to open his mouth Shirley stuck her head out the back door and told them supper was on the table. They went inside.

Sitting around the kitchen table with Shirley and the three children, Lou passed the potatoes over to Pete. "Pete, tell Shirley about going to school," he said. "And you kids listen. You might learn something."

★ Capades to the Dysart arena on Saturday night as the Haliburton Figure Skating Club celebrated its accomplishments before an appreciative audience. Dozens of skaters enjoyed the chance to display the skills they've been perfecting all season long.

★ Countless hours of work went into the performance, which, as always, was memorable for all. ★

Some of the Haliburton Figure Skating Club's youngest members got a chance to display their skills in a number called 'Bird Dancers' during the first half of Saturday night's gala Stars on Ice carnival. At right, amateur coach Katie Campbell helps Jasmine Prindiville and Stacey Coumbs play to the crowd.

At far right, Keri Sue Clements and Jennifer Cattell perform in a group number entitled Kokomo, skating to lively Caribbean sounds.

On Saturday, the Echo's Len Pizzezy journeyed to Camp Can-Aqua in Cardiff to photograph this sweet spring ritual. The sun was sparkling on the snow as visitors made maple syrup slushies at the camp's extensive facilities

With warm days and cold nights, the sap starts to run in maple trees. In the Highlands there are many producers, large and small, who are busily boiling down the sap into syrup. What better way is there to herald in this new, much-anticipated season

A Scrumptious Resume from Sir Sandford

■ For references, just ask the six hungry people who had lunch at Halimar Lodge on Thursday

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

How's this for a résumé?

The first work experience is four types of homemade bread, including the highly addictive, flaky cheese sticks. This nibbling is accompanied by fresh smoked salmon adorned with capers, red onion and lettuce. The second course passed with flying colours is the pork stuffed with chopped mushrooms and pine nuts, glazed with a wine sauce and nicely set amongst mixed vegetables, buttered potatoes and apple sauce. To round off this gastronomical experience are apple slices dipped in cinnamon batter, fried, and set afloat in a swirling sea of raspberry and chocolate.

For references, please contact the six people who had lunch at Halimar Lodge on Thursday.

A menu may seem an unusual job application technique, but for seven Sir Sandford Fleming College students, they hope it's a tasteful way to convince potential employers that they have the skills required to succeed.

The seven have just completed a nine-week course taught at Halimar by Ronald Tenthorey, a certified pastry chef who also teaches for George Brown College and the Toronto Board of Education.

As Linda Simmons serves a delicious lunch to Delaine Sisson and Sheila Stackhouse, photo top right, David Colpitts and Stephanie Cooper put the finishing touches on dessert

"Our goal is to understand basic ingredients, purchasing, freshness and costs, to be able to put dishes together effectively," Tenthorey says as the students put the finishing touches on their ambitious luncheon.

There is a surprising amount of calm in the kitchen, given that there are four hungry SSFC employees and two visiting journalists preparing to sit down in the bright dining room at this Lake Kashagawigamog resort. As two students fry the battered apples, others check that the oven is keeping the pork warm and there's sufficient bread in the baskets. They've been preparing all morning so except for the last-minute surprises which plague every kitchen, they're ready to prove how much they've learned.

The course has taught them, quite literally, about everything from soup to nuts. On Friday they received their certificates, making them fully capable of finding employment as a cook or chef's assistant. With so many lodges and resorts in the area, they believe such skills are very marketable.

Unfortunately, on the second-to-last day of the course, no lodge owners were able to attend. (The students could have handled quite a crowd - one assignment was to cook dinner for 42 volunteer firefighters, who aren't known for being light eaters.)

"We want to show them what we can do," says one student.

All feel they have benefited from the course's approach. Instead of learning theory, they were actually in the kitchen, practising what Tenthorey was teaching. When Halimar was busy, they took turns volunteering in the kitchen. "You have to get your hands into it," says Kim Dewey. "You learn by doing."

The students also realize how important it is to act like a team, synchronizing their activities so all the little pieces come together in one satisfying meal.

Does anyone want to take a bite of their résumés?

Field naturalists peek through windows as they set their sights on bird identification

During Saturday's hike along South Kashagawigamog Lake Road, Diego Rico takes a look through a telescope, above, while others scout for the friendly chickadee

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

THE PEOPLE whose house was attached to the two bird feeders on South Kashagawigamog Lake Road must have been taken aback when they saw a dozen pairs of eyes staring into their livingroom.

Unbeknownst to them, however, their house wasn't being cased by a would-be gang of thieves. No, these earnest people lining the peaceful road just wanted to take a good look at all those birds.

"There's a goldfinch at the feeder!" says Chris Lemieux, one of the two leaders during the Haliburton Highlands Field Naturalists' bird hike. He lifts his binoculars to his wire-rimmed glasses. "Wait a minute... no, it's another siskin."

But a goldfinch can be heard twittering about the trees, perhaps drawn by all the strange calls of these two-legged beasts.

"Psh, psh. Psh, psh."

Although that's probably not spelled correctly — translating a bird's vocabulary into a human's would put even the finest lexicographers into a flutter — this is the call used on a quiet Saturday morning to get birds to leave their spring nests. Lemieux and his co-leader, Ed Poropat, say there are three theories about why this call works so well: birds think it's a distress call and flock to help; they think another bird is feeding in its territory; or they think the caller might be a potential mate, "so run fast."

That's a generic call, but Lemieux and Poropat have a few bird-specific calls in their repertoire as well from "Yiep, yiep" to the whistled two-note call of the chickadee-dee-dee. (In one scene during this hike, it's as if a nature-loving Lauren Bacall was trying to teach Humphrey Bogart how to attract a real bird. "You just put your lips together and blow...")

On this morning, it's not just the birds who are listening. The two expert birdwatchers have been joined by a dozen other people who are also interested in our fine feathered friends. Some are neophyte birdwatchers, such as nine-year-old Diego Rico; others have bird guides whose dog-eared corners show how often they are used. All have an enthusiastic desire to improve their ability to identify birds by sight and sound.

The group meets at the government dock in

OPPORTUNITY FOR INPUT ON PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION ISSUES

Guided by the recommendations contained in the Haliburton County Community Directional Plan, the Haliburton County Planning and Development Committee is coordinating an opportunity for interested parties (agencies-organizations/service providers/consumers) to become involved in planning/developing a more coordinated system of public transportation for Haliburton County.

The Committee is seeking input, knowledge and expertise on the existing transportation resources in the County as well as the public's assistance in identifying any possible gaps in service delivery, availability, etc.

The meeting will take place at the Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton Village on April 19, 1993, from 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Please advise Kate Reed, Development Coordinator, Planning and Development Committee, by April 12, 1993 at 457-9188, if you would like to attend this meeting. Your participation is encouraged and valued.

TAX TALK

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF H&R BLOCK

Q. My wife turned 65 in 1992 and began receiving the Old Age Security pension which was her only income for the year. She has never filed an income tax return before. Must she file one now?

A. No. Because her income is so low, she is not taxable. When you file your return, you will be able to claim a full or partial married amount in respect of your wife, depending upon the amount of the Old Age Security payments she received. Because your wife turned 65, she becomes entitled to claim the age amount, and since she will not require any of it to reduce her federal tax to zero, the amount may be transferred to you in order to reduce your tax liability. You must complete Schedule 2 (Amounts Transferred from Spouse) to transfer her unused age amount. Also, if your wife was disabled or took any courses, there are other amounts that may be transferred. Don't forget that since your wife isn't filing a return, you should apply for the goods and services tax credit for both of you, providing you otherwise qualify.

Which One Had Six Owners?

You're faced with some very important questions when you buy a used vehicle. How many owners were there? Are any loans still owing against it?

In the past, getting the answers wasn't always easy. But now, to assist people who are buying or selling a used vehicle, the Ontario Government has introduced the Used Vehicle Information Package.

If you are a buyer, the Used Vehicle Information Package will tell you important facts that will help you make a better informed decision. The Used Vehicle Information Package will tell you the names of the vehicle's previous registered owners. It will also tell you if any outstanding loans or repair bills are registered against it.

If you are a seller, just think what the Used Vehicle Information Package can do for you. Presenting a buyer with all the information right from the start will make the decision to buy your used vehicle a lot easier to make. And the cost for this package is just $20.

The Used Vehicle Information Package can be ordered through the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations any time, day or night, by phoning 1-800-267-8847 outside Toronto, or 325-8847 in Toronto. Telephone Device for the Deaf 1-800-461-8866 or 326-8866 in Toronto. Credit cards accepted. Or after May 3rd, 1993, a package can be picked up at any Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Office.

A brochure with tips on buying or selling a used vehicle can be ordered through the above telephone numbers, and is available at any Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Office.

Bird watching is the fastest growing recreational activity

Haliburton. As cars whiz by the still frozen lake, it doesn't seem like the ideal classroom. But Lemieux, an education co-ordinator at the Frost Centre, and Poropat, a public school teacher also known for his love of kayaking and bats, use the opportunity to explain some of the basics.

"Look at those two birds on the wire," says Lemieux, pointing above the busy street. "What do you see? Long or slim beak? Chunky or slim? Short tail, long tail? There it goes. What's its flight pattern like?"

From behind their binoculars, several people reply to Lemieux's questions before turning their attention to their bird books. Then, as if he was playing "Bingo" in a church, someone puts all the clues together and says quietly, "It's a starling."

"A lot of people call them black birds but they're not even members of the black bird family," says Poropat who, by the way, has been stopped by police who were suspicious of why he was looking so intently at a house. "The big thing that gives it away is the short tail and bright yellow beak."

Before they head off, Lemieux gives them another piece of advice about birding in groups. Instead of saying "Look at that bird in the tree" while standing in the middle of a forest, be specific. "Identify not only the bird but where it is. Oh, it's over here. Where's here? Over at the tree. What tree?"

"If that doesn't work," jokes Poropat, "practise your 'What are you, blind?'"

The group is now hip deep in the snow piled high behind Haliburton Lumber, another unlikely place for a nature walk. But the hike's leaders had seen previously seen some ducks in the open water. Ducks might seem common, but you never know when a unique family member decides to drop in for a visit.

The staff's curious looks remind Lemieux and Poropat of a bird watcher's etiquette. Never go on private property without asking for permission. Never disturb birds, especially during breeding. Never let your quest to add yet another bird to your list overcome your manners. As one man said, "My name's Tom so I'm not doing any peeping."

Everyone gets politely into their cars as the modern wagon train heads for Ingoldsby, where every second house seems to have a bird feeder.

When they first stand on the bridge, all you can hear is the melting snow dripping down into the water below. But Lemieux does his "psh, psh" and sure enough, it's not long before several birds are heard. There's a blue jay, crow, red and white breasted nuthatch...

As binoculars search for what the ear can hear, Lemieux tells them how birds often depend on each other for survival. For instance, a woodpecker pecks its way up a tree, looking for any sign of grub. A nuthatch starts at the top and works its way down, getting a different perspective of what's hidden behind the holes left by the woodpecker.

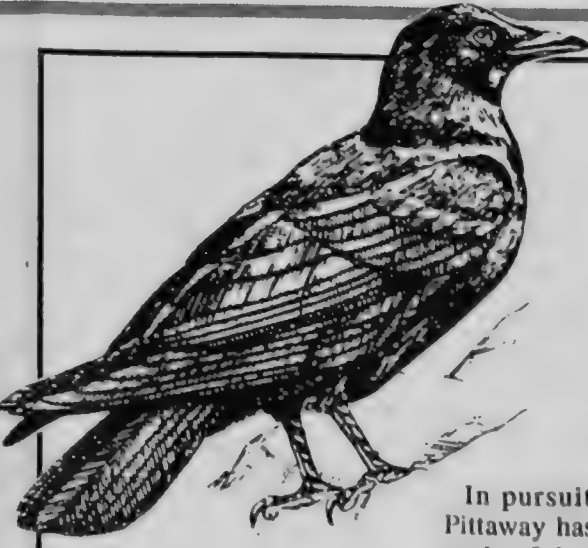

Then the group heads farther along the shores of Lake Kashagawigamog, their friendly chatter often drowning out any sounds of birds until everyone stops, looks and listens at the house with the two bird feeders.

Just before they continue on their way, the participants are asked why bird watching is becoming the fastest growing recreational activity. The answers are fast and numerous.

"It's inexpensive... You can do it anywhere... It's healthy, it gets you outside in all seasons... Birds are very dazzling, spectacular in colour... It's low key competition - 'I saw this' and 'I saw that.'"

Whatever the attraction, rest assured this won't be the last day these people go bird hiking.

For more information about the group, please write P.O. Box 1067, Haliburton, K0M 1S0. Or just put your lips together and whistle. A lot of birders now know how to flock together to see if there's someone new in the area.

Appearances can be deceiving with crows and ravens

Drawing of raven courtesy of World Atlas of Birds

by LAURA CAMPBELL
Special to the Echo

Have you ever been out walking and seen the familiar sight of a black bird sitting in a tree and couldn't tell by its size whether it was a raven or a crow?

Ron Pittaway, a naturalist for 10 years with the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resource Centre, says "size is the most difficult way to judge an animal in nature." This is especially true of crows and ravens as the two are rarely seen together, making comparisons difficult. As well, like most animals they are usually some distance off, which plays a role in distorting the picture.

In pursuit of this question, Pittaway has made a three-year study of the differences between the two. He notes that one of the easiest ways to decipher them is by their calls. The crow is famous for its caw, while the raven never makes this sound. Instead it will croak, bark, squawk, screech and gurgle.

Another way to tell the two apart is by what is called "wing-tail flicking." Pittaway explains that, "in the summer of 1985, while watching crows near my home in Minden, I noted a distinctive behaviour of crows which I later observed is not exhibited by ravens.

"Crows habitually flick their folded wings and fan their tails, especially just after perching, when this flicking is usually done one to three times. My observations of hundreds of crows over a three-year period indicate that "wing-tail flicking" is a characteristic behaviour of crows that is given throughout the year, often without apparent territorial significance.

"The absence of flicking is not diagnostic of ravens, but since crows do it frequently, its absence is a clue to the species' identity."

Pittaway also notes that at this time of the year it's easier to distinguish between the two as most of the crows in the area have migrated south. There are a few which stay mostly in towns where food is easier to find and they don't have to compete with the larger birds such as the raven.

Anyone interested in more information on ravens and crows or other birds in the area are encouraged to contact the Frost Centre at 766-2451.

GUIDE TO HALIBURTON & AREA BUSINESSES

Summer is fast approaching, and that means thousands of cottagers and visitors will soon be flocking to the Highlands. Today, more than ever, you need to make those people your customers. The Echo's GUIDE TO HALIBURTON & AREA BUSINESSES can help you do just that!

The 1993 edition of this popular publication will be better than ever. Last year, all 10,000 copies of the Guide were eagerly picked up and read by potential customers of your business, and interest in this year's publication is certain to be just as high. Don't be left out! Book your space now!

As in the past we'll include a promotional article on your business equal to the size of your ad. A quarter page ad gives you half a page of space, a half page ad equals a full page of exposure, and a full page ad gives you two full pages of promotion! Compare that benefit, and our rates, with any other publication in the area. There's simply no comparison!

We'll be contacting as many businesses as possible in person or by telephone in the next few weeks, but to ensure your business is profiled in the 1993 GUIDE, call Creighton Feir or Les Feero at 457-1037 or fax us at 457-3275. Don't delay! The GUIDE is in production now, and will hit the streets in May!

Speaker shares stories of Guatemala with congregation

Dorset

Phyllis Briscoe - 766-2237

Happy birthday greetings to Kyla Woods who celebrated a birthday on Mar. 26. Zachary Lock was ten years old on Mar. 27. We wish him a happy one.

The first day of spring has come and gone but I haven't noticed any little green sprouts pushing up through the snow and I don't think we will for some time. I guess Warton Willie knows his stuff.

The World Day of Prayer was held March 5th in Knox United Church. It was a very interesting service. The theme was the country of Guatemala. The speaker was Reverend Susan Manning, who took the congregation into the country by vividly describing the living conditions, the advantage and the disadvantaged, the former being in the minority by a great degree. So much of the wealth controlled by so few, and the terrible hardships endured by so many. Interesting slides on the subject were shown after the service and refreshments were served.

The Library hours beginning April 1st are: Tuesdays 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.; Thursdays, 2:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and Saturdays, 12 noon to 2:00 p.m.

The community sympathizes with the family of Norman MacKay, who passed away at Huntsville Hospital on March 12th after a brief illness. Norm was a lifelong resident of Dorset, was born and raised here, married and raised his family in Dorset.

He never retired from active work and enjoyed tending his garden which was always a showpiece and many people in the area enjoyed its produce.

Norman was highly esteemed in the community, by old and young alike, he always had a pleasant word for everyone and was noted for his kindness. He was never accused of saying an unkind word about anyone. He will be greatly missed.

A lovely shower was held at Jeanine Dunn and Brad Robinson's home on March 17th in honour of the twin girls, Lisa and Lindsay, born recently to Sherry Haynes and Ron Dunn. The hostesses were Shirley McDonald and Joanne Hatton. The home was filled with guests and the tables stacked with beautiful and useful gifts, all in twos, of course. After the packages were opened and gifts admired, delicious refreshments were served.

H.H. - If you are going to pour hot liquid into a glass, put a silver spoon in the glass first and the glass won't crack. Silver absorbs heat quicker than glass.

MARVELOUS MUSICIANSHIP: Haliburton concert series patrons were treated to some very fine music making on Sunday night as Fourwest came to town for the final concert of the year. The four musicians quickly established a rapport with the audience that made the evening both memorable and delightful. Pictured following the performance are pianist William O'Meara, soprano Wendy Humphreys, cellist Margaret Gay, and flautist Carol Ann Savage.

BANCROFT & HALIBURTON COMMUNITY INDUSTRIAL TRAINING COMMITTEE will be offering a LANDSCAPING GARDENER & RELATED CARPENTRY PROGRAM

If you are interested in: Learning the groundwork to starting your own business and becoming proficient in:

Identification, care and planting of annuals, perennials & biennials; shrub & tree planting care & pruning; turf management, pesticide use, soil management, rock garden construction, wooden retaining wall, fence building, landscape plan layout and implementation.

Wilberforce
Flo Elliott - 448-2618

The Seniors' Club fund raising dinner on March 20th was a huge success. About 130 people were served and may compliments were received on the delicious meal. The mountain, with Wilberforce climbing up the side to show our funds to date, was a real conversation piece. Real shamrocks were drawn for throughout the evening, which added to the fun. It was also a great place to meet people you hadn't seen for a while. The Seniors would like to extend their thanks to all who came to help make their event so successful.

After dinner many people made their way across the road to enjoy the figure skating carnival. The children, as usual, put on a super show. The throwing of candies into the stands was a popular event with all the young onlookers.

The Monmouth Figure Skating Club is celebrating its fortieth anniversary this year. Mrs. Beatrice Herlihey was honoured for founding the club and for acting as the first president. She would like to thank those who spoke so highly of her endeavours, and also for the lovely flowers that were presented to her. Mrs. Herlihey was pleased to have her family with her for the evening. Two granddaughters, Heidi and Holly Stepanek, daughters of Paul and Gloria Jane, skated in the carnival. Heidi will be attending university next year. Also present was another granddaughter, Jeannie, daughter of Carol Jean and Karl Marcus. She had just arrived from Germany, where she attends university. She is on her way to visit her brother, David, who is teaching English in Japan. David graduated with an Honours B.A. degree last May from Queen's University.

Everyone was shocked and dismayed to hear of the tragic accident that claimed the life of Florence Coumb on March 20th. The sympathy and prayers of the community are extended to the family. We were also saddened to hear of the death of Bob Manary, and send our sincere condolences to the family.

There were 10 tables at the Euchre party on Friday

March 19th. The Lone Hand prize was won by Luella Hogan; men's high, Gerald Shackleton; ladies high, Marjorie Bell; men's low Clifford Godfrey; and the ladies low, Gwen Taylor. The door prize was won by Elsie Lewis. The next card party will be on April 2nd. Everyone welcome.

Easter week will soon be upon us, so here are the church services as I have been able to find out. Holy Week service for the Catholic church will be at Our Lady of Lourdes in Cardiff; St. Margaret's Anglican church on Good Friday at 10 a.m. and on Easter Sunday at 9:15 a.m.; the United Church will have its service on Easter Sunday at 11:30 a.m. I will let you know if I find out any more next week.

On Good Friday, April 9th at 7:30 p.m. the Requiem will be performed at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton. Several singers from Wilberforce are in the Choir. All are welcome to attend this lovely and moving service.

Please remember the Maple Syrup Festival on Saturday April 10th. in the Lloyd Watson Center. There will be pancakes and maple syrup, of course, as well as tables of various articles. This year the lounge will be utilized to show videos of how maple syrup is produced and how much work goes into the making of a single quart. The organizers are expecting the usual large crowd as this is always a popular event, and at least gives one the feeling that spring has arrived.

Trillium Lounge bursts with song

Senior League Winnifred Barnum - 286-2140

Saturday afternoon Scott Gartshore was here to play some of his beautiful music for the residents in the Trillium Lounge. It must be very satisfying to be able to give happiness to people in that way.

Sunday evening the Chapel service was conducted by Rev. John Burgess, accompanied by Louise Leonard on the organ.

Friday evening Bill Payne and his band were here to sing and entertain us with their toe-tapping music. Everyone appreciated it.

Monday evening Dianna Morris came to show a film.

Tuesday morning Chapel Service was led by Donna Quantz. The Residents enjoy the service very much. On Wednesday we had crafts and Stella Burch held reading in the Primrose Lounge. In the evening Pastor Murray held a service in the Trillium Lounge.

Thursday the Lioness Club from Minden hosted the tea party for us. It was a delicious tea and the ladies who served it were Josie Heller, Edna Moulton, Maureen Boeckstyn, Lorna Hawkins, Georgina Kernohan, and children (who helped serve) were Erin, James and Meghan Kernohan. It just happened my sister, May Cameron, and her daughter came to see me from Peterborough, so they had tea with me. I enjoyed their company and they enjoyed the lovely lunch.

Friday is Happy Hour and the entertainment was provided by Ed and Billy Picard. Their music greatly appreciated by Residents and visitors. Those who tended the needs of everyone were Don and Ellen Holden and Dottie Muirhead.

Friday, we were entertained royally by Gordon Kidd, Lloyd Madill and Zoe Chilco. Volunteers were Dottie Muirhead, Don and Ellen Holden. Thank you all for making this possible.

The Residents' condolences are sincerely sent to the relatives, family and friends in the passing of Dora Dawson, March 11, 1993.

A sincere thank you to all those mentioned above for their many kind acts.

Local talent shines

West Guilford Eleanor Cooper - 754-2278

Congratulations Angela Bilodeau whose skating instruction and coordination brought off such a marvellous show of young talent at the Wilberforce arena on March 20. Angela, daughter of Holly and Sylvia Sisson, had her own daughter, Jaime and a niece Hollis Wilson in the show.

Although generous donations were made by those who attended our Red Cross talent night to raise funds from the community for this worthy organization, only a few attended. The Scottish country dancers entertained and the audience consisted of George and Marilyn Long of Bracebridge, Elva Cooper and me, and Perry and Kay Morrison. We also enjoyed Earl's and Kathleen's playing of Irish tunes and of course Earl's piping.

Sid and Louise Cooper spent the last weekend of winter break in North Bay at her brother Jack Rossetar's. Both he and his wife were celebrating birthdays as well as Louise is around this time.

Maggie, Jim and Bruce Milne recently spent a weekend in Ottawa attending the opera La Traviata at the National Arts Centre. A friend of Maggie's from her Wilfrid Laurier year was part of the cast and understudied for the lead role.

Singers evoke harmony

Extendicare

John Menzies

March 29, 1993: Warmth now that Spring has finally arrived.

Some of the residents are now going out into the sunshine, to shake off the winter.

During the crafts program, with Bernice Stewart, the residents made wall fans.

The residents were happy to see and hear the Country Boys later on that night.

Betty Salvatori returned this week to lead the Bible Study.

A most welcome group of volunteers helped out at bingo, Mary Packard, Darlene Fearrey, Helen Archer, and Irene Higgins.

On Wednesday the weather was sunny and warm for the trek out to Minden for ice-cream and donuts.

On Thursday, Bob Thompson and Jock

Mavor stopped in for their usual visit. Bob, a tenor, and Jock a base, for the Messiah Choir, held an impromptu sing-along for the residents, in the lounge.

They attracted much notice when they began singing in harmony. With so much discord in the world, harmony is still available, even in duets.

Grandfathers Four were in on Thursday night to bring pleasure through entertainment.

The highlight of the week was the arrival of the Friendship Club, a gathering of children from the local churches. Barbara Fawcett lead them in song. The choruses they sing and the freshness of their youth gladden the hearts of many residents.

Rev. Nick Murray led the service on Friday. He is no stranger to the seniors- his first service ever was in a seniors home. He stated that their response is an inspiration to him, and a highlight of his life in the ministry.

400 IN MEMORIAM

BARRAS, BREANNA — In loving memory of God's precious little angel, Breanna, a daughter and granddaughter who was taken away March 26th, 1992. We think of you in silence now. We often speak your name. But all we have are memories. And your picture in a frame. If tears could build a stairway, And memories build a lane, We would walk to heaven, To bring you home again. Breanna, you did not go alone, for part of us went with you. Till we meet again, love, Daddy, Grannie and Grampie, and Jane.

FRANCIS, S. CARL — In loving memory of husband and father S. Carl Francis who passed away, April 3rd, 1992. those we love remain with us For love itself lives on And cherished memories never fade Because our loved one's gone. Those we love can never be More than a thought apart. For as long as there is a memory, He'll live on in our hearts. Sadly missed, but, lovingly remembered. Ruby and all your family.
